DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a continuous inkjet printer, classified in class 347, subclass 73.
- II. Claims 9-15, drawn to a replenishment system, classified in class 347, subclass 84.
- III. Claims 16-20, drawn to a method for supplying replenishment fluid to automatically adjust a supply rate of the replenishment fluid to the ink tank, classified in class 347, subclass 19.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the continuous printer does not need a replenishment system, wherein the replenishment fluid adjusts a viscosity of the source fluid. The subcombination has separate utility such as adjusting the viscosity of the source fluid, the interval being based on a nominal evaporation rate of the source fluid and based on a predetermined volume required to lower the pressure by 1psi.

Art Unit: 2861

Inventions I and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the continuous printer may be used to supply replenishment fluid to an ink tank, but not necessarily to automatically adjust a supply rate of the replenishment fluid to the ink tank.

Inventions II and III are related as process and apparatus for its practice. The inventions are distinct if it can be shown that either: (1) the process as claimed can be practiced by another materially different apparatus or by hand, or (2) the apparatus as claimed can be used to practice another and materially different process. (MPEP § 806.05(e)). In this case, the method of supplying replenishment fluid to an ink tank and using a control system to automatically adjust a supply rate of the replenishment fluid to the ink tank may be practiced with a replenishment system having no capability to adjust a viscosity of the source fluid.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for Group I is not required for Groups II and III, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
